Take home a piece of Route 66 Shopping in downtown Williams ...

Thursday, June 14, 2012

If you are searching for that perfect souvenir or something special for yourself, don't leave without taking advantage of Williams' many shopping opportunities.

A wide variety of treasures for just about everyone can be found at Camp Civitan Thrift and Trading Co. The thrift store features jewelry, wedding dresses, antique train memorabilia, Route 66 artifacts and vintage western wear.

Find custom saddles, gun leather and belts created locally at De Berge Saddlery and Western Wear. The store also carries Wrangler jeans, western shirts, boots, hats, moccasins, purses, leather garments and much more.

Get ready for your outdoor adventure at Elk Horn Trading and Sporting Goods. The store carries a wide array of hiking, camping, fishing and backpacking supplies in addition to Native American arts and crafts.

The Gallery in Williams is an artist cooperative featuring local artists and their wide range of mediums. Some of the art featured include jewelry, fibers, stained glass, watercolor art, pottery, oil painting, bronze sculpture, photography, quilting, graphite drawing, woodwork, scratchboard art and metal sculpture.

Find western wear for the entire family at Western Outfitters. The fashionable shop also carries footwear, shirts, jeans, belts, hats, purses, wallets, leather garments and so much more.

Native America is the only Native American owned and operated shop in Williams. The shop offers Native American jewelry, Hopi and Navajo basketry, artifacts, crafts, Navajo rugs, sandpaintings and Kachinas.

For those looking for something with a little vintage charm, Lonesome Dove Antiques is just the ticket. The store offers collectables, antiques and one-of-a-kind treasures.
